

Eat Work Shop: New Japanese Design Where Food, Work, and Art Intersect

Eat Work Shop is a unique concept store that offers a curated selection of Japanese design products, along with a cafe and co-working space. The store was founded in 2015 by Japanese designer Naoko Takenouchi and her husband, American architect Stefan Beese. Eat Work Shop is located in the trendy Tokyo neighborhood of Nakameguro and has quickly become a popular destination for locals and tourists alike.

The Concept

Eat Work Shop's concept is based on the idea that food, work, and art are all essential elements of a well-balanced life. The store's name reflects this philosophy, with "Eat" representing the cafe, "Work" representing the co-working space, and "Shop" representing the retail store.

Eat. Work. Shop.: New Japanese Design by Marcia Iwatate

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 14727 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Print length : 366 pages

Eat Work Shop's cafe offers a variety of delicious Japanese dishes, including rice bowls, noodles, and sweets. The cafe also serves a variety of coffee and tea drinks. The co-working space is a quiet and comfortable place to work, with plenty of desks and chairs, as well as free Wi-Fi.

The retail store sells a variety of Japanese design products, including furniture, home goods, and accessories. The store's products are all carefully curated by Takenouchi and Beese, and they represent the best of Japanese design.

The Products

Eat Work Shop's products are a carefully curated selection of Japanese design items. The store sells a variety of furniture, home goods, and accessories, all of which are made by Japanese designers and artisans.

The furniture at Eat Work Shop is simple and stylish, with a focus on functionality and craftsmanship. The home goods are also stylish and functional, and they are perfect for adding a touch of Japanese flair to your home.

The accessories at Eat Work Shop are unique and eclectic, and they make great gifts for friends and family. The store also sells a variety of Japanese books and magazines.

The Designers

Eat Work Shop's products are all designed by Japanese designers and artisans. The store works with a variety of designers, including both established and emerging talents.

Some of the most popular designers at Eat Work Shop include:

- Naoko Takenouchi
- Stefan Beese
- Hiroyuki Matsuda
- Keiji Ashizawa
- Satoshi Itasaka

The Location

Eat Work Shop is located in the trendy Tokyo neighborhood of Nakameguro. The store is just a short walk from the Nakameguro Station on the Tokyu Toyoko Line.

Nakameguro is a vibrant and eclectic neighborhood, with a variety of shops, restaurants, and bars. The neighborhood is also home to a number of art galleries and museums.

Eat Work Shop is a unique and inspiring place to experience Japanese design. The store offers a curated selection of Japanese products, along with a cafe and co-working space. Whether you're looking for a place to eat, work, or shop, Eat Work Shop is the perfect place to go.

Address

Eat Work Shop
2-20-13 Nakameguro
Meguro-ku, Tokyo 153-0061
Japan

Hours

Monday-Friday: 11am-8pm

Saturday-Sunday: 10am-7pm

Contact

Tel: +81-3-6452-3553

Fax: +81-3-6452-3554

Email: info@eat-work-shop.jp

Eat. Work. Shop.: New Japanese Design by Marcia Iwatate

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 14727 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Print length : 366 pages

Emergence First Colony: a Ken Lozito Masterpiece

Nestled amidst the pristine coastal landscapes of Boynton Beach, Florida, Emergence First Colony stands as a testament to the visionary...

Afterlight: In Search of Poetry, History, and Home

Prologue: The Call of the Open Road In the heart of every traveler lies a longing for something more—a...