When the magician sets the bill on fire, the flash paper ignites, creating a dramatic burst of flames. However, the bill itself remains unharmed because it is protected by a layer of non-flammable material.

Once the flames have subsided, the magician quickly switches the burned flash bill with an undamaged one, which they then reveal to the audience, leaving them astonished and wondering how the bill was restored.

Step-by-Step Guide to Performing Money to Burn

Materials you'll need:

detection.

Step 4: The Reveal
